

This architectural section drawing illustrates a long, low-profile building with a central entrance and multiple rooms. The structure features a prominent central hall and a kitchen area. The drawing includes structural details such as beams and columns. It is labeled with 'BLOCO H' and 'BLOCO D'.

Architectural elevation drawing of the building complex. The drawing shows a long, low structure with a central entrance and a large, gabled section on the left. The building is rendered in a simple, schematic style with red and blue outlines. The gabled section on the left has a large, open area with a grid pattern. The central entrance features a small, triangular pediment. The building is set against a green background representing the ground, with a few trees on the left and right sides.

[illegible]